Abstract

Hierdie artikel bespreek antieke en moderne begrippe oor tekstuele koherensie en kohesie in Latyn. Verskeie menings oor die graad van kohesie in die briewe van Cicero, vergeleke met dié van Seneca en Plinius, word gegee. Die artikel toon aan dat Seneca en in 'n mindere mate Plinius, meer van asindeton binne die sin gebruik gemaak het as Cicero, en onderneem 'n statistiese analise van neweskikkende en onderskikkende koppelings in 'n geselekteerde korpus tekste. Die analise gee 'n betroubare aanduiding van die graad van kohesie in die korpus.
